November 30, 2011 - Birmingham, Alabama
Wynfrey Hotel

Is your Restorative Nursing Program structured and organized to help residents attain and/or maintain their highest possible psychosocial and functional level? If not, residents could be missing out on services that enhance their self-esteem and quality of life, which could have implications for the Psychosocial Outcome Severity Scale. Is restorative care delivered in a planned, systematic manner? Does staff know what is expected of them? Can staff answer questions about individual resident programs and facility restorative nursing policies and procedures? If you can answer “No” to any or all of these questions then you need to attend this seminar. Come join us as we show you how to build a Restorative Nursing program that gets results!

By the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:

1. Explain intent of 1987 OBRA requirements (foundation of Restorative Care).
2. Discuss F 309 and its relevance to Restorative Care and Services.
3. Explain MDS Section G Physical Function and its role in Restorative Care.
4. Detail the Nursing Restorative programs included in PPS process.
5. Explain Restorative Assessment and Program Development Process.
6. Discuss Restorative Program Care Plan Needs.
